QUOTE OF THE DAY

"If you're a singer you lose your voice. A baseball player loses his arm. A writer gets more knowledge, and if he's good, the older he gets, the better he writes." – Mickey Spillane

"It is necessary to write, if the days are not to slip empty by. How else, indeed, to clap the net over the butterfly of the moment? for the moment passes, it is forgotten; the mood is gone; life itself is gone. That is where the writer scores over his fellows: he catches the changes of his mind on the hop. Growth is exciting; growth is dynamic and alarming. Growth of the soul, growth of the mind; how the observation of last year seems childish, superficial; how this year — even this week — even with this new phrase — it seems to us that we have grown to a new maturity. It may be a fallacious persuasion, but at least it is stimulating, and so long as it persists, one does not stagnate." – Vita Sackville-West

"I am full of doubts ... Each new film is like a trial. Before I step in front of the camera, I do not know whether I am going to fall or whether I am going to fly — and that is exactly the way I want it to stay." – Juliette Binoche

"There are no great limits to growth because there are no limits of human intelligence, imagination, and wonder." – Ronald Reagan

“America has always been a nation of fearless explorers who dream bigger and reach further than others imagined. ... There are no limits so open your eyes and open your imagination. The next great discovery could be yours.” – Barack Obama
