QUOTE(S) OF THE DAY

"I learned more from my mother than from all the art historians and curators who have informed me about technical aspects of art history and art appreciation over the years." – David Rockefeller

"What I learned from architectural drafting is that everything has to have a plan to work. You just can't wing it. I can't get all the materials I need for a house and just start building. Whether it's a career, family, life - you have to plan it out." – Ice Cube

"It's good to have a lot of once-in-a-lifetimes in your lifetime. If you get the chance to skydive, go skydiving. If you're offered a part in a weird Shakespeare play in San Diego, slap on some tights and rock out some iambic pentameter." – Neil Patrick Harris

"There are three rules for writing a novel. Unfortunately, no one knows what they are." – W. Somerset Maugham

"The Oscar sits on some shelf above my desk. If there was an earthquake, I could actually be killed by my own Academy Award." – Helen Hunt
