QUOTE(S) OF THE DAY

“Those works of art which have scooped up the truth and presented it to us as a living force — they take hold of us, compel us, and nobody ever, not even in ages to come, will appear to refute them.” – Aleksandr Solzhenitsyn

“To make us feel small in the right way is a function of art; men can only make us feel small in the wrong way.” – E. M. Forster

“Keep me away from the wisdom which does not cry, the philosophy which does not laugh, and the greatness which does not bow before children.” – Khalil Gibran

“Whenever you are blue or lonely or stricken by some humiliating thing you did, the cure and the hope is in caring about other people.” – Diane Sawyer

“I am speaking of the life of a man who knows that the world is not given by his fathers, but borrowed from his children; who has undertaken to cherish it and do it no damage, not because he is duty-bound, but because he loves the world and loves his children; whose work serves the earth he lives on and from and with, and is therefore pleasurable and meaningful and unending; whose rewards are not deferred until “retirement,” but arrive daily and seasonally out of the details of the life of their place; whose goal is the continuance of the life of the world, which for a while animates and contains them, and which they know they can never compass with their understanding or desire.” – Wendell Berry

“Live as if you were to die tomorrow. Learn as if you were to live forever.” – Mohandas Gandhi

“If we open a quarrel between past and present, we shall find that we have lost the future.” – Winston Churchill
